8minuteDating.com to Host Indianapolis Singles Events

8minuteDating, the hottest new way to meet people to date, will now host events for Indianapolis singles. Providing not only a hip and fun way for Indianapolis singles to meet, 8minuteDating.com Guarantees that you will meet someone you want to see again or your next event is free!

(PRWEB) March 21, 2004--8minuteDating, the hottest new way to meet people to date, will now host events for Indianapolis singles. The first event, for 21-32 year olds, will occur on March 29 @ 7:30 PM at The Bad Ass Coffee Company, located at 1 North Meridian Street, Downtown. The next event, for 21-35 year olds, will take place on April 12th @ 7:30 PM at The Cornerstone Coffeehouse, next to Moe and Johnny's, located at 5380 North College Avenue.

Tom Jaffee, founder of 8minuteDating said, "We hold our events in popular restaurants and clubs, so it's not only a stress free way to meet new people, but it's also a fun night out. We always provide appetizers, and at some events we have entertainment, such as live jazz, wine tasting, or professional comedians. But bottom line, people are really energized by meeting each other in an environment where it's easy to actually talk and get to know someone."

The tag line for 8minuteDating is '8 First Dates -1 Fun Night!' Here's how it works: Men and women are paired off for 8 one-on-one conversations. After 8 minutes, the host rings a bell, and the participants discreetly note on their dating card whether or not they're interested in another date with that person.

In the middle of the evening, there's a 20-minute intermission. Guests can talk further with some of the people they have already met or they can approach that certain someone they may have had their eye on but haven't gotten the opportunity to meet yet. This is also a good time to write down the names of people they're interested in meeting. "We've seen that even shy people are having an easy time meeting lots of new people at our events," Jaffee said.

After the intermission, each participant has four more 8-minute dates. After the eighth date, the organized part is over but the evening is not. At this point everyone can mingle, make new friends and also enjoy a cash bar and complimentary appetizers. After the event, the participants enter the names of the people they're interested in dating on the 8minuteDating.com web site. When any two people are interested in meeting each other again, the web site automatically sends e-mails to both parties with their contact information.

So far, 8minuteDating events have been selling out at every venue with attendance ranging from 50 to 100 people, depending on the size of the room. Events are being held at popular venues throughout Indianapolis.
